

English Reading Audition

This is an oral reading audition taken by (YOUR NAME) on (TODAY'S DATE). (BRIEFLY DESCRIBE YOUR RECORDING SETUP – MIC, ROOM, RECORDING DEVICE, SOFTWARE)

Denver Post

Utah man suspected of threatening President Joe Biden shot and killed as FBI served warrant
President Joe Biden speaks at the Arcosa Wind Towers, Wednesday, Aug. 9, 2023, in Belen, N.M. Biden is making the case that his policies of financial and tax incentives have revived U.S. manufacturing.

By JEFF BAILEY | jbailey@denverpost.com | The Denver Post
August 9, 2023 at 2:01 p.m.

SALT LAKE CITY — A Utah man accused of making threats against President Joe Biden was shot and killed by FBI agents hours before the president was expected to land in the state Wednesday, authorities said.

Special agents were trying to serve a warrant on the home of Craig Deleeuw Robertson in Provo, south of Salt Lake City, when the shooting happened at 6:15 a.m., the FBI said in a statement.

Biden is scheduled to fly to Utah late Wednesday. The shooting is under review by the FBI.

Court documents allege Robertson referenced a “presidential assassination” and also allege threats against Manhattan District Attorney Alvin Bragg, Attorney General Merrick Garland and New York AG Letitia James.

“The time is right for a presidential assassination or two. First Joe then Kamala!!!” authorities say Robertson wrote in a September 2022 Facebook post included in the filings. No attorney was immediately listed for Robertson in court documents.

On Thursday, he’s expected to visit a Veterans Affairs hospital to talk about the PACT Act, which expanded veterans benefits, and hold a reelection fundraiser.

Westword Magazine

Social Sightings: It's Peak Ice Cream Season

It's (finally) heating up outside and that's the perfect excuse to go hard on frozen treats.
By Molly Martin

July 3, 2023

National Ice Cream Day is coming up on July 16, if you're into marking food holidays. I prefer to eat whatever I want, whenever I want to. And lately, I've been craving ice cream. I generally go for savory food over sweet, but (finally) hot days and hail-related stress have driven me toward frozen relief. Here are some of my recent ice cream favorites:

Sadboy Creamery is the newest ice cream brand to launch in Denver, and it's a one-man show. It was created by recipe developer Michael Kimball, who makes all of his nostalgia-inspired flavors in a studio space above City, 'O City. Pickup is available on Saturdays, and I devoured both flavors that were available over Pride weekend. But the Rainbow Unicorn Sherbet was the standout: Tangy, fruity and oh-so-smooth, it was downright fun to eat.

In May, news broke that Dairy Queen is discontinuing its cherry-dipped cones — a dumb move. Cherry-dipped cones are basically the only reason I ever go to DQ, but at least I can still get a fix when I'm visiting one of my favorite mountain towns, Buena Vista. There you'll find K's Dairy Delite, an old-school ice cream stand that pretty much always has a line, but it's totally worth waiting for its classic cold treats, burgers and hot dogs.

Tongue Twisters

1. Cooks cook cupcakes quickly.
2. Frivolously fanciful Franny fried fresh fish furiously.
3. A skunk sat on a stump and thunk the stump stunk.

Complex Sentences

1. The complex houses married and single soldiers and their families.
2. I do not know where family doctors acquired illegibly perplexing handwriting; nevertheless, extraordinary pharmaceutical intellectuality, counterbalancing indecipherability, transcendentalizes intercommunications' incomprehensibility.